

Debbie Stremmel Biography for Memorial Scholarship

Debbie Stremmel was born and raised in Lancaster County. While her 30-plus year newspaper career took her to states across the country, she returned to the hometown she loved so well.

Debbie held the position of LNP Media Group Recruitment Solutions Supervisor and was a member of Society of Human Resource Management her entire career, participating at local and national levels. Most recently she was the co-chair of Lancaster SHRM's Workforce Readiness Committee and had been elected to the Board.

Her expertise in recruitment marketing was borne from experience working on local, regional, national and international platforms. As an innovator and early adopter of new technology she championed the use of labor statistics and data to build new technology tools to simplify and strengthen recruitment campaigns to attract the most qualified candidates.

Her passion was helping those searching for direction. She wanted students and those already in the workforce to understand their options and learn to match their talents to life-long careers, not just jobs. She knew that a college degree was not necessary for, and did not automatically convey, success. Debbie understood that manufacturing and technical careers are the backbone of our economy. Through her efforts she has left a lasting impression on the organizations that focus on career development and the local workforce.
